You'll wonder how you ever lived without it..

The Problem: How do you cut your sheet materials?

Traditionally, cutting sheet materials has been a matter for fixed panel saws in the workshop, and hand held circular saws with trestles on site.

Vertical panel saws offer good levels of safety and accuracy, but must be permanently installed, limiting their flexibility, especially for operators who work from site to site, or have limited workshop space.

Table saws are also fixed in one location, require significant floor space and are typically more dangerous to operate. Achieving good levels of accuracy can be difficult. Hand held circular saws can of course be used anywhere, but cutting in quantity soon becomes backbreaking, whilst cutting narrow or small pieces is slow, inaccurate and never easy. The safety risks are well known, and without dust extraction, these tools often produce significant levels of mess in the working environment.

The Answer: The Zapkut ZK Range

The Zapkut ZK Range is a fully portable, folding, vertical cutting platform that accepts a wide range of manufacturers' power heads with circular saw blades from 184mm- 190mm / 7¼ - 7½", including battery powered units.

It comes with a quick change head for cross or length cutting.

The Zapkut ZK Range, opens out in seconds to fully support sheets up to 2440mm x 1220mm / 8' x 4', 3250mm x 1650mm / 10' x 5' for accurate cutting in virtually any environment. Built in scales makes dimensioning quick and easy. The Zapkut ZK Range also includes a "quick-stop" for easy and accurate cross-cutting and a "mid-height support" for waist-height cutting of smaller pieces, but excludes the power tool.

In the workshop or on site, the Zapkut ZK Range is easily and quickly opened out for use, or folded away for transport or storage.

With provision for dust extraction and cable management built in, it is safe in operation, maintaining a clean working environment. To set up or fold-away is achieved in seconds, and cutting even thick sheets in a confined working space is a straightforward one person operation.

Applications:

The Zapkut ZK Range is ideal for a wide variety of tradespeople including:

- Shop, office, kitchen and bathroom fitters, and anyone who works on site.
- Smaller workshops with limited cutting requirements or budgets
- Sign makers and others using off-cuts from pre-cut materials
